A 90-year-old California woman was fired from her volunteering position at the National Multiple Sclerosis (MS) Society because she 'did not understand pronouns,' despite previously winning multiple awards from the nonprofit group.

Fran Itkoff had been volunteering for the MS Society, a nonprofit support group for multiple sclerosis patients, for 60 years before she was removed.

Although her dedication to the MS Society had been recognized over the years, the group recently forced her to step down after she asked what pronouns meant.

'I was confused. I didn't know what it was and what it meant,' Itkoff said of her first reaction when she was asked to use pronouns in her email signature.

Itkoff's husband, a patient with MS, was running the Long Beach Lakewood MS support group before he died 20 years ago, she said in an interview with the Libs of TikTok.

Itkoff took over her husband's position and volunteered for the nonprofit organization for the next couple of decades until a representative reached out to her recently.

The representative, who has not been named, reportedly asked Itkoff to use her pronouns, but she did not understand what it meant.

The 90-year-old woman said: 'I had seen it on a couple of letters that had come in after the person's name. But I didn't know what it meant.'

'So when I finally talked to her, I asked what it meant... And she said that meant they were all inclusive, which didn't make sense to me.'

Itkoff said: 'I was completely shocked. I can't believe... I had to read it a couple of times to see if I'm getting what she said.'

Elle Hamilton, Itkoff's daughter, said: 'To me it's ironic, because they are saying they are inclusive, but they are excluding a 90-year-old disabled woman who has volunteered for 60 years.'

The interview with Itkoff has since gone viral on social media, with users tagging the organization and demanding comments and an apology.

One user wrote on X: 'Are you aware that Fran Itkoff, age 90, a Long Beach, CA, volunteer of 60 years(!) was let go of her duties because she did not understand the reason for the new fashion of adding one's pronouns to communications?

'This is ageism, compelled speech, and awfully disappointing. Is your corporate team aware of the message this sends out to patients, donors, sponsors, and of course, your remaining volunteers?'

'MS is not a political issue. Don't let it become one for the sake of "inclusivity." Take care of Fran Itkoff. Apologize, reinstate her with honors, and have a good chat with the representative who let her go,' the user wrote.

Another person wrote: Not another dollar to the MS Society until they reinstate Fran Itkoff and publicly apologize for their abusive treatment of this 90-year-old dedicated volunteer.'

DailyMail.com has reached out to the MS Society for further information and comments.

Leftists believe all humans are equal, so you are not allowed to hurt another person's feelings. This sounds "nice" on the surface, but free speech gets taken away. They ignore biological science. Males have longer and more dense bones, a larger lung capacity, and more testosterone. Leftists still want them in women's sports. This is an ideology that gets spread in schools and in the media. Look for "They Teach Wokness To Children" for a video.

I really hate this because my Mom had ms and was active in the MS Society and I donated and volunteered as well. I hope this comes out as a rogue chapter staffer's decision and not a top down decision. This disease does not care about pronouns, you would think anyone shouldn't either, when it comes to the search for a cure.

It's presumptuous when people add pronouns. They assume I will have any interest talking about them. It's egocentric, superficial and obnoxious. I would be embarrassed to tell people who didn't ask. And if people can't tell, you need a better haircut.

These people can no longer claim that they are marginalized, as you have to power to "cancel" someone over something like this then you are privileged. Just because you want to be called something it's my right to decide not to play into your delusions.

This poor lady has had a large incentive to stay alive and be useful, taken away from her. Charities are very toxic environments these days. I was recently fired from one (as a paid employee) for not apparently 'buying into' DEI initiatives. I don't recall the subject ever coming up in my day-to-day work with customers, but someone clocked me 'rolling my eyes' at a conversation about pronouns, and I was summarily fired. I have been unemployed ever since. These people are normalising bullying behaviours, groupthink, and zero tolerance. They are, in fact, everything they claim to hate.

No doubt a decision made by a desk jockey who doesn't know a fraction of what Fran knows about the organization and MS and who does nothing all day but police for perceived slights and offenses. One of those people who hide with a notebook and pen in bathroom stalls, hoping to overhear something she can report immediately. People with MS do need help but surely there's another MS organization that worries more about their mission than their pronouns.

DEI=Dumb equality issues! Has the world gone insane? There are only two genders, male and females. The rest are pretend genders. Hell, I could pretend I'm a giraffe even though I'm 5'6". Get real people. We used to call these people crossdressers. If they want to do that, I do not have a problem until you try to ram it down my throat. Pretending to be something does not make it real.

Why should people be forced into joining in with someone else's identity crisis? They are either male or female, they might think they are something else, but they aren't. If we are forced to accept their viewpoint, they should be forced to accept other people's views too.

Outrageous. It kills me these people who want to use different pronouns want us to understand them but don't take the time to understand a 90 year old wouldn't get it. I'm 49 and I don't get it.

The perpetually offended "woke" Left derive much of their self-esteem from the notion that they are morally superior to "those people" (anyone who has a different opinion on ANY issue). No insult goes too far and no punishment (boycotts, loss of job, shunning, actual physical violence, etc.) is too severe in their eyes. As they destroy people who've done nothing wrong, they maintain a high opinion of themselves as good and righteous. They don't see how mean and horrible they really are. This gives them a sense of power, as does casting themselves as the victim of FALSE h8 crimes. That's why there are so many of them.

Sounds like the person who fired her was more into making things center around themselves than the actual cause. The pendulum has swung so far away from the original intention of DEI that people now have completely lost sight of what it is supposed to mean and only look at it as a way to exclude people.

I'd probably be fired from any job that would force me to use pronouns on my email signature. I don't care what anyone else does but if you can choose whatever pronouns you want I should be able to choose just being me which means I don't want or need to designate my pronouns. I'd go to the ACLU but they probably wouldn't take my case. This organization should be ashamed of themselves. She doesn't get it bc it's absurd. She wasn't trying to disrespect anyone she is 90 fis.
