

CURRICULUM

Feminist medical school professor says trans kids identifying as 'minotaurs' are part of 'gender revolution'

The 'Minotaur' is derived from Greek mythology. It had the body of a man and the head of a bull

By Hannah Grossman · Fox News

Published August 16, 2023 6:00am EDT

Detransitioned teen Chloe Cole: I'm afraid my generation will be led astray

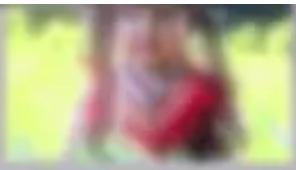

Former transgender kid, Chloe Cole, shares the complications she deals with every day as a result of medical interventions she was subjected to after being diagnosed with gender dysphoria. "I'm not sure whether it'll even go away," she said.

A California hospital executive and professor claimed children can identify as a mythology-inspired creature and claimed that this category of children love mermaids, according to a presentation reviewed by Fox News Digital.

Diane Ehrensaft, a self-identified "feminist" who supports a "gender revolution," is the director of mental health and chief psychologist at the UCSF Benioff Children's Hospital gender development center. She is also a professor at UCSF School of Medicine. The developmental and clinical psychologist specializes in pediatric "gender-affirmative care for transgender and gender-expansive patients."

Her biography page reflected that Ehrensaft focuses her research on how genders before puberty develop as well as the mental health effects of puberty blockers and cross-sex hormones, which are part of chemical sex changes, on children.

Ehrensaft made what some may consider fringe claims about gender ideology, including that kids can identify as "gender hybrids" which include a mythology-inspired creature called a "gender Minotaur," and that kids can change their genders by season and can have different identities depending on their location.

21ST CENTURY GENDER CREATIVE CHILDREN

- Transgender Children
- Gender Expansive Children
- Gender Fluid Children
- Gender Non-binary children
- Gender Hybrids
 - Gender Prius: Half Girl-Half Boy
 - Gender Minotaur: One on Top, Other on Bottom
 - Gender by Season: School year girl, Summer boy
 - Gender by Location: At Home, boy; At Grandma's, girl

Diane Ehrensaft claims children can identify as "minotaurs."

According to Britannica, a "Minotaur" is derived from Greek mythology and was a creature which had the body of a man and the head of a bull.

"I totally agree we are in the midst of a gender revolution and the children are leading it. And it's a wonderful thing to see. And it's also humbling to know [children] know more than we do about this topic of being gender expansive," she said during a 2018 talk at the San Francisco Public Library.

Ehrensaft believes the transgender revolution is the next phase of the 60s feminist movement, which featured challenging stereotypes about gender.

"Now, we've got genders moving boulders, and it makes a lot of people nervous," she said.

HOSPITAL INSIDER WARNS TRANS KIDS ON HORMONES FREQUENTING ER FOR HARMING THEMSELVES IN CRY FOR HELP

Ehrensaft believes that transgenderism is derived by a "gender web" which is influenced by culture, upbringing and nature.

"Each person's web will change over time as they age," the event's description said. "What's Your Gender? Don't answer until you hear all your options... Ehrensaft wants you to get off the binary measurement scale."

She introduced language such as "genderfluid," "non-binary" and "gender expansive." She then predicted the language will evolve beyond that, and cited her conversation with a 7-year-old as proof that there can be "gender minotaurs" and hybrids.

"And as you know, language is political. So what's good today will be politically incorrect tomorrow. So we'll just keep changing as we go," said Ehrensaft. "This is a whole group of kids you all should know about."

NONBINARY TEACHER BOASTS ON CHANGING STUDENTS' GENDERS WITHOUT PARENTS KNOWING: 'THEY NEED PROTECTION'

"A boy... twirled [in my office]... and said to me, 'You see, I'm a Prius... I'm a boy in the front, and I'm a girl in the back.'"

Diane Ehrensaft focuses her research on how genders before puberty develop as well as the mental health effects of puberty blockers and cross-sex hormones. (Fox News Digital)

Ehrensaft then said that "gender Minotaurs" love mermaid content.

CLICK HERE TO GET THE FOX NEWS APP

"I started meeting a whole bunch of other gender hybrids. And so we have the gender Prius, we have a gender Minotaur," she said. "And most of the kids who are gender minotaurs love mermaids. So make sure you have a lot of mermaid books. If you really you think about it, it works."

Fox News Digital reached out to Ehrensaft and the children's hospital for comment but did not receive a response.

For more Culture, Media, Education, Opinion, and channel coverage, visit foxnews.com/media

Conversation 8.1K Comments

20 Viewing

Discussions are moderated. For more details, click here.

What do you think?

Sort by Best

- J

jmb2528

16 August, 2023

I thought I was the Lone Ranger, Tarzan and Batman when I was a young child, but never a Minotaur.

Reply 544 1 Share

49 replies

...
- S

seapig173

16 August, 2023

So, if my kid is a Minotaur, am I still able to drive in the HOV lane?

Reply 167 1 Share

17 replies

...
- whoisincharge

16 August, 2023

...

Don't just focus on the one person who makes such accusations. Focus on the institutions that enabled them through so-called education. I'm sure they created more than one. Either find them or shut down those institutions.

Reply 883 5 Share

46 replies

ineednoname

16 August, 2023

Children are great at make-believe (pretending what is not real is real), it's part of growing up. Every time a child pretends they are something, should an adult step in and say it's real? Should children who pretend to be soldiers be enlisted in the military? Should children who pretend to be any...

See more

Reply 611 4 Share

34 replies

usc4yourselfus

16 August, 2023

2 years ago, I took my 12 year old daughter to a therapist to help her deal with the loss of a friend (Tristyn Bailey) who was brutally murdered, and several other challenges going on that were not her fault. After a couple sessions, my daughter starts blaming me for her problems and the therapi...

See more (Edited)

Reply 117 1 Share

14 replies

J$-

16 August, 2023

As reported by the American Psychological Association (APA), there is an unusually high percentage of college students experiencing psychological problems who, ironically, decide to major in psychology. Young people with Depression, Anxiety, OCD, or Gender Dysphoria are often attracted to a field o...

See more (Edited)

Reply 196 4 Share

19 replies

libertybud43

16 August, 2023

Kids have played pretend as long as there have been kids. Never did we assign reality to those fantasies. Even the kids know it's make believe, but for some reason we try to groom them in affirmation bubbles until they start to question reality. This is abuse of the highest order.

Reply 273 2 Share

17 replies

politired22

16 August, 2023

and then these kids grow up and can't cope with being responsible adults in the real world. When a kid is raised to believe whatever they want to believe, to believe in something that isn't real, how do they expect them to be responsible functioning adults someday?

Reply 84 2 Share

5 replies

i'mjustsayin

16 August, 2023

First the very definition of a myth is a widely held but false belief or idea. Second, this person should have their license to practice revoke, removed from the university in which they hold a position and should never be around children. Third, she needs therapy.

Reply 516 1 Share

18 replies

SFC19K40

16 August, 2023

Nowhere in history did any book get written that suggested this gender nonsense would happen in the 21st century. Not in fiction, fantasy or scholarly books. Nor has there been a movie or tv show. UNTIL the radical left got so much power. It boggles the mind how these newer generations put so muc...See more

Reply 303 3 Share

22 replies

Show More Comments